DEMPSEY WON

His Weight and Strength Proved Too Much for the Science and Agility of His Gallant Opponent

(Associated Press)

New York, July 2.—The entire metropolitan area was today with a frenzy of excitement, unprecedented in the annals of sport as the hours rolled slowly toward the Dempsey-Carpentier clash for the world's heavyweight boxing championship. New York's mansions and gorgeous hotels early began disgorging brilliant parties of women and men, intent on getting to the arena in Jersey City early. Other fans had begun to scramble toward the arena hours earlier by ferry, flivver and train. Even the early arrivals found themselves out-generalled by an advance guard of several hundred men and boys who spent the night in line waiting for the first crack at the $5.50 unreserved seats.

Dempsey awaited the hour to defend his title in a Jersey City residence, where he spent the night. Carpentier left his quarters at Manhasset by automobile for Port Washington, where a yacht awaited to bear him to the fight city.

Odds, favoring Dempsey shortened markedly in the last hours of betting, but the champion still reigned a two or two and a half favorite over the challenger. Carpentier, however, ruled the sentimental favorite.

ATTENDANCE EQUAL IN NUMBER TO THREE ARMY CORPS

Ringside, July 2.—The gates opened at 9:45 and in popped the crowd. Men and women poured through the entrances. The big saucer filled from the brim down instead of from the bottom up, the first to arrive being the gallery gods, who had camped all night outside the arena to buy the $5.50 seats. Gradually, however, the wave of humanity rolled down to the ringside as the more plutocratic ticket holders reached the stadium.

The early comers sat down to wait. They had just three things to do: debate the weather prospects which in the morning appeared dubious, admire the world's greatest arena in which more than 90,000 could be seated and speculate on future ring history. The overcast skies gave a constant threat of rain. It is an ideal day for the spectators for there is no scorching sun.

About the ring experts were setting up the telegraph instruments which were to report the fight to millions throughout the world. Further back in the arena hundreds of ushers and food vendors bustled.

The first of the six preliminary bouts started at noon eastern standard time. The principals are due to fight at 3 o'clock eastern daylight time or two o'clock eastern standard time. It was announced at 11:30 that the main bout would go on scheduled time, rain or shine.

CARPENTIER ARRIVED AT TWO O'CLOCK

It began to sprinkle at 1:15. The railbirds with nothing but the wide world between them were the only ones who dared to raise an umbrella. The rain stopped in a few minutes. The crowd showed its first enthusiasm when Governor Edwards entered the arena. It was announced at 1:30 that every seat in the arena had been sold, meaning that 91,600 seats would be occupied.

Carpentier entered the arena at 2 o'clock and went immediately to his dressing room. The challenger was as dapper as ever in a gray suit and cap to match. It was learned that several members of George's training camp had placed nearly $5000 that Carpentier would win by a knockout at odds of three and five to one.

IN THE RING

Carpentier entered the ring at 2:57 and Dempsey entered two minutes later.

Dempsey greeted Carpentier with a smile and "Hello, Georges," when they shook hands. Bill Brennan was introduced and challenged the winner. Carpentier weighed 172 and Dempsey 188.

ROUND ONE

They were off at 3:18. Carpentier landed a light left and clinched. Carpentier landed a right. They fought at close range in a clinch. Dempsey was short with a left to the head. Carpentier missed a right left connected with a left hook. Dempsey punished him, beating him unmercifully. Carpentier was groggy and bleeding at the nose. Dempsey missed a right swing but beat Carpentier as they clinched. Carpentier fell through the ropes trying to avoid a punch. He went into Dempsey when he crawled into the ring and landed several blows on the champion's body at the ropes. Dempsey had the better of the a right to the jaw. Dempsey followed, beating him around the head with rights. Carpentier staggered Dempsey with six rights and lefts to the jaw. Dempsey staggered back and split the Frenchman's left eye with a hook. The cut was under the eye. They exchanged body blows in the clinch and the bell rang.

ROUND THREE

Carpentier ducked a left. He backed Dempsey into the ropes and hit him with a short right. Carpentier landed two uppercuts to the body in a clinch. As they clinched Dempsey punished the invader in the body. They missed lefts to the head and Dempsey punished Carpentier viciously in the fighting. Dempsey landed a left and right to the head without return. They exchanged left hooks to the chin. Dempsey clubbed Carpentier on the jaw with left hooks in the clinch. Dempsey battered Carpentier into a corner with rights and lefts at the bell. It fell saved Carpentier from a knockout. It was Dempsey's round.

ROUND FOUR

Dempsey rushed Carpentier to the ropes and a left to the body made the challenger wince. Carpentier landed a right to the head and tried to hang on. Jack floored Carpentier for the count.

Dempsey finished flat on his face with his legs and arms outstretched in the fourth round. Dempsey knocked him out with a short right hook to the chin one minute and sixteen seconds after the round started. Previous to the knockout, Carpentier was floored with a left to the body and a right to the chin. The Frenchman took the count of nine, then Dempsey stretched him out, stood by until the count was finished and then tenderly picked up the bleeding and dazed Frenchman and dragged him to his corner.

Dempsey gave Carpentier an unmerciful beating. He opened up a cut under the Frenchman's eye and battered him so viciously Carpentier's face was swollen and bleeding. The Frenchman fought back gamely but was outclassed. Carpentier was out only a few seconds.

Panama Canal Locks.

There are few things more interesting to the average traveler than to pass through the great locks of the Panama canal. The vessel enters very slowly and as she does lines are taken aboard leading to electric motors or "mules," which keep her in the center of the lock. Then the great gates at the rear swing together and the water is turned into the enclosure thus formed. Looking over the side of the steamer one sees a great bubble of water rise from the bottom, then a second and third appear until finally the whole surface of the lock is boiling. The pressure is so great that often fish sucked into the drains that lead from the Gatun lake, are drawn in and thrown several feet into the air. When the proper level is finally reached the gate ahead of the vessel opens and the "mules" start forward, dragging the vessel free from the lock before she moves ahead under her own power.

Carnival Festivities.

Carnival festivities originated in the Roman Catholic countries of Europe, where they were celebrated, especially in Rome and Naples, with great mirth and freedom during the week before the beginning of Lent. Mardi Gras (literally "Fat Tuesday," so called for the French practice of parading a fat ox, "bœuf gras," during the celebration of the day), or Shrove Tuesday, is the last day of the carnival. The festivities were first introduced into New Orleans in 1833, by one of its French citizens, Mr. Marigny, and for many years they consisted of promiscuous musings, roaming through the streets of the city, indulging in various kinds of amusements, fun and folly.

Oldest Crown Jewel a Sapphire.

Only a few of the early British royal jewels survive in the present regalia. The oldest of these is the sapphire of Edward the Confessor, which was originally set in his coronation ring. It was buried with him in his shrine in Westminster Abbey, but in 1101 the shrine was broken open and this and other jewels removed. The sapphire is in the crown on the top of the king's state crown. Legend has it that St. John once appeared before the Confessor as a pilgrim, and that the monarch gave him the ring, which was returned later. The stone is reputed to have the power of curing scurvy and rheumatism, but has not been used for this purpose recently.

Embarrassment.

"Of course," remarked Senator Sorghum, "I was proud to have a vote so overwhelmingly in my favor. And yet it has its disadvantages."

"In what way?"

"I am compelled to feel a sense of obligation toward everybody who votes for me; and a landside makes the number so great that I can scarcely keep up with the responsibilities."

TARPON SPRINGS VS OCALA MONDAY

Sponge City Has a Fine Team and Ocala Fans Will be Glad to See It Again

(By L. T. I.)

The fast team from Tarpon Springs will be in our city again Monday and Tuesday, July 4th and 5th. Spend a part of your glorious Fourth at the ball park helping Ocala win. Tarpon as already played two games with us and both games were good ones. The scores for the two games were 3 to 2 in favor of Tarpon and 2 to 1 in favor of Ocala. What more could be discriminating baseball public desire? It is the intention of both teams to win both games Monday and Tuesday so that the championship will be decided.

Ocala has a battery that is both good and unique—GOODbread and LeavenGOOD. Both boys are about half good. Put them together and you have a combination that is hard to beat. LeavenGOOD has what it takes to put the LEAVEN in Mike Goodbread's BREAD. If you fans believe in an omen of good luck this combination is bound to win.

The weather is pretty rainy these days. If it looks like rain for the games Monday and Tuesday don't take it for granted that there will be no game. We will play unless it pours all the afternoon. If it rains hard at three o'clock and then stops before four, there will be a ball game. We are promising Tarpon Springs' expenses, which amount to over $150 for the two days. We can't afford to lose. Come out and see the game and help pay the visitors for their trip.

All who are disinclined to help a good cause and who would push a little sick chicken in the creek can send their cars on Orange street and see the game free of charge. The team can't make you move on, but they can surely take a good look at you. We wish to call special attention to those parked on Orange street so that everybody will know that you have not paid admission.

ROTARIANS ON THE RUN

But Managed to Save their Charter, Even While in Retreat

(Associated Press)

Live Oak, July 2.—The recently organized local Rotary Club received its charter on the run, as it were, when a thunder shower burst forth upon the presentation ceremonies.

The ceremonies had been arranged to take place in the open. Rotarians from nearby South Georgia and Florida towns had been entertained at a picnic spread. Various delegations had rendered songs and numerous speakers had bespoken success for the infant organization, all by way of leading up to the presentation.

Finally District Governor "Dick" Smith, who was to deliver the coveted paper, was led to the rostrum amid much ado and a myriad of varied colored lights.

Governor "Dick" warmed up to the occasion but the thunder shower caught him in the midst of a gesture. The charter bolted and started off with the wind, while the audience scurried for the courthouse nearby. The recalcitrant charter was quickly retrieved by the governor and "presented" to E. George Fallison who "accepted" it as they hid themselves to a refuge.

AMERICAN MARINES LANDED AT ISMID

To Protect Americans in that Territory from Bandits or Turkish Troops

(Associated Press)

Paris, July 2.—A detachment of American marines landed at Ismid, 50 miles southeast of Constantinople, in Asia Minor, for the purpose of protecting Americans there upon the retirement of Greek troops, says a dispatch to the French foreign office. A small French detachment is at Ismid and it reports the bodies of several Moslems assassinated before the departure of the Greeks have been found. The French, however, saved four thousand Turks in the town it is said.

ENGLISH LAW INVOKED

(Associated Press)

Dade City, July 2.—The Pasco county authorities have invoked an old English law in order to prosecute Orlando Sparks, a negro, who escaped recently while serving a sentence of five months on the county roads for stealing chickens. Sparks was recaptured in Pinellas county and to make an example of his case the authorities decided upon prosecution. When the county commissioners applied for a warrant they were disappointed to learn that the legislature never had seen fit to enact any law providing punishment for a convict for escaping. It later was learned that to escape from prison is a crime under the common law of England and since there is an old provision in the state code that the common law of England shall be in full force in Florida unless otherwise provided by statute, a case has been docketed against Sparks charging him with the common law offense of "escaping."

TESTING OUT VALUE OF THE RADIO COMPASS

(Associated Press)

Washington, July 2.—A remarkable demonstration of the peace-time value of the radio compass, a war development, was furnished during the recent passage of battleship division five of the Atlantic fleet from Hampton Roads to Boston, according to an announcement of the navy department. The entire voyage was made in a heavy fog and navigation all the way was accomplished by shore radio compass stations, submarine bells and soundings, not a light or fixed aid to navigation being sighted on the trip.

"From the time departure was taken until Boston lights were picked up not a light vessel or lighthouse was seen," says a report from Vice Admiral H. P. Jones, commanding the battleship force. "The fog was so dense that during most of the passage the ships astern of the division flagship were invisible."

"Had it not been for the radio compass situation the arrival of battleship division five would have been greatly delayed. This practical demonstration of radio direction finding is a clear indication of the military value of radio compass stations and of the necessity for continued development along this line."

Radio compass stations have now been established along the coasts so that vessels at sea in foggy weather can communicate with the stations and in a few minutes establish their correct position. About 2500 ships now receive the service each month, it was announced.

NOVEL WAY TO SPEND THEIR VACATION

Defuniak Springs, July 1.—Ten young men of this place have adopted a novel method of taking a summer vacation which will permit them to visit several states while earning considerable more than their expenses. They purchased a heavy motor truck and equipping it with a camping outfit have set out on an overland trip with the harvest fields of Oklahoma and Texas as their ultimate destination. The youths will work in the fields wherever they find employment and in addition to their earnings expect the truck to pay for itself before their return home in the early fall.

Negro Preacher in Miami Advocating Race Equality Came Near Starting Race War

(Associated Press)

Miami, July 2.—Quiet prevailed today in Coconut Grove, a suburb of Miami, where last night H. H. Riggs, a negro preacher, was kidnapped for preaching alleged racial equality doctrines. Riggs returned to his home this morning showing no signs of rough treatment. He was taken from his home by four white men in an automobile and after a report that the negroes were arming, police reserves and American Legion men were called out as a precaution. One negro failing to heed the command to halt as he was crossing the bridge into the city was shot and slightly wounded by a guardsman.

SAILORS MADE FIRST GLASS

According to Story of Its Discovery, It Was Entirely the Result of Chance.

One of the most useful materials in the world is glass. It is not only a domestic necessity, but a scientific essential. The development of chemistry would have been a far more laborious process had it not been for the many utensils manufactured from glass. So numerous and varied are its uses that one can hardly conceive of present-day civilization without this product. Yet the discovery of this valuable material was what might be termed an accident. Floyd W. Parsons writes in the Saturday Evening Post.

As the story runs, a merchant ship laden with natron, a brittle white carbonate of sodium, was driven ashore at the mouth of the River Belus in Phoenicia. The crew prepared their food on the beach, supporting their kettles on piles made up of lumps of the natron. Later the sailors were amazed to discover transparent masses of stone among the clinders of their fires. The heat had melted the soda and the siliceous sand together, with the result that a crude variety of glass was formed. If the early records are correct the art of glass manufacture was exclusively an industry of the Phenicians. One reason for crediting this statement is the fact that the ingredients of glass—natron, sand and fuel—were abundant upon the coast of Phoenicia.

Waterworks in the Desert.

In the big desert of Chile there is a considerable amount of brackish water, but no water that either human beings or stock can drink. Science, however, has come to the aid of the rainless section of the country in the form of an ingenious desert waterworks, consisting of a series of frames containing 20,000 square feet of glass. The panes of glass are arranged in the shape of a V, and under each pane is a shallow pan containing brackish water. The heat of the sun evaporates the water, which condenses upon the sloping glass and, made pure by this operation, it runs down into little channels at the bottom of the V and is carried away into the main canal. It is said that nearly a thousand gallons of fresh water is collected daily by this means.

Savage Wilderness Marauder.

The fisher is, taking it all in all, said to be the most savage, swift and crafty of all the marauders of the wilderness. In nine cases out of ten—perhaps even 99 out of a hundred—a fight between a porcupine and a fisher has but one result: The fisher eats the porcupine. And the porcupine is some defensive fighter. The fisher flips the victim over on his back, annexing as few spines as possible in the act, and he has an unprotected throat and belly at the mercy of his fangs.

The porcupine's quills, so deadly to other animals, have for the fisher comparatively few terrors. They do not poison or inflame his flesh, which seems to possess the faculty of soon casting them forth again through the skin.

Good Place to Keep Cool.

The ice caves of Iowa present one of the most interesting phenomena in this country. While the rest of the state sweats in midsummer the temperature of the soil near the caves is not higher than 55 degrees. As a result trees and flowers exist which are usually found in the far north.

The caves owe their existence to the prehistoric seas which are supposed to have covered this territory, as they are found in limestone districts where the rock is porous. In the winter cold air is stored in the crevices and when summer comes this air comes out very slowly and the outside of the caves is covered with frost.

SWEET POTATO CLUBS WILL ORGANIZE THIS SUMMER

(Associated Press)

Gainesville, July 2.—The movement to establish sweet potato clubs in those sections where corn and pig club sars deemed impractical, is being given impetus by the offer of the state plant board to furnish the members of the clubs with free plants from choice seed, according to the agricultural extension division of the University of Florida. Several varieties of the potato seed will be given a trial this year, according to the club leaders, with a view to planting next year only those varieties which give the best results.

EBBERSOL-PELOT

There are many friends in Ocala who will learn with interest of the marriage of Miss Dora Williams Pelot to Mr. Ebbersol, which took place last Sunday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. A. Pelot, in Arcadia.

The wedding was a quiet but very pretty one. The young couple had planned to be married in the fall, but a position was offered Mr. Ebbersol at Fort Dodge, Iowa, which he couldn't afford to refuse, consequently the marriage took place sooner than was expected. Mr. and Mrs. Ebbersol left immediately after the wedding for Chicago, where they will visit for a short time, after which they will proceed to Fort Dodge.

Mrs. Ebbersol is the youngest daughter and child of Mrs. W. A. Pelot. Before moving to Arcadia, Mr. and Mrs. Pelot made their home in Ocala and were among our most prominent and best liked citizens, and their daughter was quite a favorite in Ocala. Besides possessing many charming attractions, Mrs. Ebbersol is a bright young business woman. Mr. Ebbersol has been a great acquisition on the DeSoto News, Arcadia, and besides being missed there he will be a loss to the social activities of the town.

Ocala friends extend congratulations and best wishes to both Mr. and Mrs. Ebbersol for a long and happy married life.

JACKSONVILLE POLICEMAN RIGHT ON THE JOB

(Associated Press)

Jacksonville, July 2.—Traffic Officer John S. Smith almost made a real haul here Thursday night. Jacksonville's streets before and after the mammoth parade in celebration of the opening of the St. Johns river bridge probably were more congested with automobile traffic than at any time in the history of the city, traffic officials said.

Smith was on duty at Main and Forsyth streets directing traffic when a huge touring car rolled up. Smith waved it west. The driver turned east and started away. The traffic officer climbed the running board and in forcible language told the driver to turn west or keep going east and stop at police headquarters. The car went west but not before Smith had discovered that the passengers were Governor Hardee and a high city official.

Smith, who has the reputation of doing his duty regardless of whom it may affect, won a place of honor Friday because of his firmness in handling the traffic job Thursday night. He was detailed to direct traffic on the new bridge which was opened during the day.
